

Rochem Americas, Inc.

Water Treatment Applications Scientist/Engineer

Job Overview

Rochem Americas, Inc. primarily serves landfill, mining, and other industrial markets in North America with membrane wastewater treatment systems. As an Applications Engineer, you will be responsible for evaluating potential wastewater streams for their treatability using Rochem systems. You will prepare proposals for the sale of Rochem systems, including auxiliary equipment sizing, pricing, and applicability.

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Evaluation of customer applications for feasibility
- Performing projections of system capabilities
- Estimating system costs
- Writing proposals and quotations
- Sourcing and quoting spare parts
- Technical position, with a strong sales aspect
- Work with sales and service groups as well as with customers
- Based on East coast/ Mid west, some travel, including international will be required

Qualifications:

- B.S. in Engineering or a physical Science, Chemical Engineering preferred
- 3-5 years experience required with wastewater/ industrial water treatment process design preferred
- Strong chemistry background (especially in organic chemistry)
- Very strong written and verbal communication skills
- Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint proficient
- Hands on mechanical and/ or electrical skills is a plus
- Database experience beneficial
- CAD experience preferred (AutoCAD or Vectorworks for Mac OS)

- Excellent interpersonal skills
- Engineering firm experience is a plus
- Familiarity with Spanish or German is a plus

To apply for this position, please email your resume to:

Erica Hacker

erica@rochemamericas.com

Rochem Americas

